A&D Weekly: Backlog for NBs Extend ~10-Yrs w/ 787 & A350 Near 12-Yrs

We analyze BA & Airbus backlogs over the past 10 years and derive implied backlogs after a successful FAS2026 with 334 orders & commitments, up from 291 in 2024 (+14.8%). Current backlogs stand at 6,814 for BA and 9,222 for Airbus. BA's APAC ex-China backlog share rose to 23% from 15% in 2016, while Airbus regional mix is largely unchanged. BA led the show with 180 orders vs. 154 for Airbus, representing $37BB of value vs. Airbus' $20BB (JEFe).

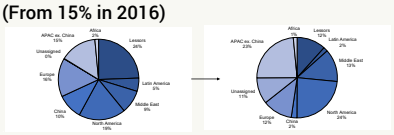

Current Backlogs Extend ~10 Years at Announced Rates. There is a balance between backlog size, production capacity and marketing efforts. A selling point for commercial aerospace over the past several years has been the expansion of the backlog, however, in times of stress backlog becomes less important. Backlogs extending beyond manufacturing lead times create supply risk, forcing airlines to plan fleets much further in advance. As of June 2026, the MAX backlog of 4,846 aircraft supports 110 months (9.1 years) of production at the JEFe assumed 2026 rate of ~44/mo. The A320neo family, meanwhile, supports 131 months (10.9 years) of production at our 2026 rate of 57/mo. For WBs, the 787 and A350 backlogs both extend 143 months (11.9 years) at our 2026E rates.

BA Backlog ~42% of OEM Backlog vs ~44% in 2016. BA's backlog has now reached 6,814 (6,202 after ASC 606) aircraft (+1.7% CAGR from 2016). The backlog today has a similar makeup to 10 years ago, but with a higher weighting towards North America (24% versus 19% in 2016) and APAC (23% ex-China vs 15% in 2016) while China has shrunk as a percentage of the total backlog (now just 2% of backlog, from 10% prior). However, President Trump stated in May that China agreed to purchase 200 BA aircraft, with BA CEO Kelly Ortberg stating that the company expects the details of the orders to be finalized in the coming months. The share of backlog weighted toward lessors halved from 24% share in 2016 to just 12% today, though we saw notable strength in lessor demand at FAS2026 and lessors are also active in the SLB market (Ex 3). In aggregate, BA has ~42% of the total OEM backlog share, down from ~44% in 2016, having conceded NB share to Airbus following the MAX groundings in 2019.

Airbus Backlog Composition Largely Unchanged Since 2016. Airbus' geographic mix is largely unchanged vs. 2016, with mix shifting away from lessors toward operators. Regional mix has remained largely unchanged as it has captured share from BA on the NB side given MAX challenges. Airbus has seen its backlog expand from 6,967 ten years ago to 9,222 today (+2.4% CAGR). Underlying regional exposure, Airbus has seen modest expansion in APAC (to 31% of backlog from 27% prior). In aggregate, Airbus represents ~58% of total OEM backlog share today, up from ~55% in 2014.

334 Orders and Commitments at FAS2026. Farnborough 2026 reinforced healthy order demand, despite stretched backlogs, with BA and Airbus receiving 334 combined orders & commitments, up 14.8% from 291 in 2024. BA led the show, capturing 54% of announced orders (180 aircraft) versus Airbus at 46% (154 aircraft), w/ BA accounting for roughly 65% of estimated order value ($37BB of $57BB total) due to a heavier mix of WB orders. NBs led orders, with 242 single-aisle aircraft (72% of total announcements), led by SMBC Aviation Capital's 200-aircraft order split evenly between BA and Airbus. BA's ~85% higher est. order value ($37BB vs. $20BB) was driven by WB commitments from Philippine Airlines, Riyadh Air, AerCap and MSC Air Cargo, totaling 72 twin-aisles vs. 20 for Airbus.We estimate post-FAS backlogs of 6,987 (+2.6%) for BA and 9,367 (+1.7%) for Airbus.

Defense & Space

- BA: The U.S. Navy's MQ-25 Stingray carrier-based refueling drone program has moved IOC to Q2:FY30 vs a previous target of Q3 FY27, according to a Defense Department reprogramming request. The delay stems from test aircraft deliveries slipping to 4Q FY28 from 2Q FY27, prompting the Navy to reallocate $29.5MM in FY26 spare parts funding, although the program recently completed its first flight test and received approval for low-rate production, with the Navy planning to procure 76 aircraft overall.
- KTOS: Developed, tested and delivered advanced turbomachinery for Lockheed Martin's advanced ramjet propulsion system, completing standalone validation before integration. The propulsion system subsequently demonstrated readiness to advance toward flight testing, with Lockheed Martin and the U.S. Army Aviation and Missile Center participating in the test campaign.
- LDOS: Awarded new task order by the U.S. Air Force's Air Combat Command Acquisition Management and Integration Center to continue providing intelligence, surveillance and reconnaissance (ISR) operations support. The task order has a total potential value of approximately $717MM if all options are exercised, includes a one-year base period plus four one-year options, and covers support activities at more than 35 locations worldwide.
- LDOS: Unveiled Parcata, an AI-driven cybersecurity platform designed to accelerate vulnerability detection and remediation across first- and third-party software, including the ability to patch zero-day vulnerabilities in real time. The company said the technology was developed by its Kudu Dynamics team, incorporates multiple large language models, has been validated through DARPA's AI Cyber Challenge, and is currently being used on Leidos software before deployment into mission environment
- LHX: Signed 7-year framework agreement with the Department of War and Lockheed Martin to support long-term production of PAC-3 MSE propulsion systems, its largest PAC-3 propulsion agreement to date. The agreement is expected to nearly triple production of key interceptor components, including the two-pulse solid rocket motor, Attitude Control Motors and Lethality Enhancer, with the contract anticipated to be definitized later this year.
- LMT: Lockheed, alongside the Australian government and the U.S. Navy, supported the successful Taipan Strike 26 live-fire demonstration of a developmental Medium Range Ground Based Air Defence (MRGBAD) prototype at the Woomera Test Range. The test integrated CEA radar technology, virtualized Aegis command-and-control capabilities and a mobile ground-based launcher, demonstrating a potential medium-range air defense solution that leverages existing ADF investments and supports future integrated air and missile defense modernization efforts.

- RTX: Pratt second-generation geared turbofan architecture, combined with technologies from RTX businesses including Collins Aerospace, positions the company for future Airbus and Boeing single-aisle aircraft programs. Management argued that next-generation aircraft will require a platform-level approach emphasizing operating economics, durability and systems integration, while indicating the company views an evolved ducted GTF architecture as the preferred path forward, with potential entry into service around 2040.
- SAIC: SAIC was awarded a $70MM U.S. Navy task order to provide engineering, modeling, simulation and lifecycle sustainment support for advanced radar, radio frequency and microwave systems for the Naval Surface Warfare Center Crane Division. The five-year contract supports a range of Navy radar programs, including SPY-1, SPY-6, SPS-48E/49 and G/ATOR systems, and reinforces SAIC's position in radar and electronic warfare technologies.
- SPCX: U.S. Space Force awarded SpaceX a $1.6BB contract for nine National Security Space Launch Phase 3 Lane 1 missions through 2027, using Falcon 9 rockets to deploy satellites supporting space-based sensing, targeting and communications capabilities. The awards were issued through two task orders, with the Space Force highlighting an accelerated acquisition timeline of roughly two months from requirement identification to contract award.
- The U.S. Army's Project Convergence Capstone 6 is evaluating the Next Generation Command and Control (NGC2) architecture at division scale, involving 9,300 soldiers and more than 100 emerging technologies at the National Training Center. The exercise, which includes allied forces from the UK, Australia, Canada and New Zealand, is testing AI-enabled command-and-control tools, including the Realtime Airspace Management Suite, which Army officials said has reduced airspace deconfliction times from more than 25 minutes to less than five and enabled fires to be executed approximately 90% faster than legacy systems, while serving as a key assessment for future modernization and acquisition priorities.
- Hidden Level received a $100MM Other Transaction Authority (OTA) award from the Department of War to scale its passive sensing technology for counter-drone missions across the military. The award enables direct procurement of the company's passive radio-frequency sensing hardware, software and Airspace Monitoring Service, supporting rapid deployment, prototyping and production of systems designed to detect, track and identify aircraft over military installations, test ranges and the U.S. border.

Commercial Aerospace

- BA: Reallocating engineering and flight-test resources from the now-complete 737-7 and 737-10 certification programs to accelerate 777-9 certification efforts. Management said the 777-9 program has completed 55% of the flight testing required for certification and remains on track for first deliveries in 2027, with three of four primary test aircraft now flying in final certification configuration
- BA: Evaluating changes to traditional aerospace business models for a future next-generation aircraft, including greater vertical integration, new supplier partnerships and alternative commercial arrangements, but reiterated that Boeing does not see conditions as right to launch a new single-aisle program.
- BA: FAA proposed a new airworthiness directive covering certain 737 MAX 8, MAX 9 and MAX 8-200 aircraft after discovering some passenger seat assemblies may have been improperly installed. The proposal would require inspections of all left- and right-side track-mounted passenger seats on affected aircraft and corrective action where necessary. The directive impacts 453 U.S.-registered MAX aircraft, with BA indicating some or all inspection and repair costs may be covered under warranty.
- BA: The 777-9 aircraft designated for upcoming extended-range twin-engine operations (ETOPS) testing completed its first flight on July 24, marking another milestone in the certification program. The aircraft, which will ultimately be delivered to Singapore Airlines, will be used for ETOPS validation flights and is expected to be joined by a second aircraft for function-and-reliability testing.
- GE: The FAA plans to mandate expanded inspection requirements for CFM56-7B fan blades, incorporating updated procedures and a broader inspection area developed by CFM International. The proposed directive is based on the latest revision of the fan blade inspection program introduced after the 2018 Southwest Airlines engine failure and reflects new guidance issued by CFM in July.
- MTU: Growth plan remains on track after reporting H1 adjusted revenue of €4.7BB, up 13% y-o-y, and adjusted operating profit of €692MM, up 5%, driven by strong demand and new MRO contracts. Management said the Middle East conflict has not impacted orders or demand and expects powder metal-related GTF engine groundings to continue declining and be largely resolved by year-end 2026, with AOG levels already down about 25% y-o-y.
- RR-GB: Rolls-Royce said it plans to begin flight testing an upgraded Trent XWB-97 engine in 2027, with certification targeted later that year and entry into service expected in 2028. Management said key components have already reached TRL 6 and highlighted progress on durability improvements aimed at harsh operating environments, while Emirates described recent updates on the program as promising.

- RTX: P&W received an IDIQ contract to support FY26 F135 engine sustainment requirements, including initial spare parts, deployable spare packages, depot lay-ins and associated support equipment for U.S. and international F-35 operators. The company stated the F135 sustainment network currently supports 42 bases and 13 ships worldwide, has delivered more than 1,500 F135 engines across 20 allied nations, and will leverage the existing support infrastructure for the future F135 Engine Core Upgrade program.
- RTX: P&W signed a five-year agreement w/ Willis Lease Finance to provide storage and lease return services for PW1100G-JM, PW1500G, PW1900G, PW4000 and V2500 engines from facilities in Florida and Wales. The agreement expands a long-standing relationship between the companies and supports P&W's growing aftermarket engine storage requirements
- RTX: Airbus CEO Guillaume Faury said Pratt & Whitney is expected to be in a "much more normalized situation" by 2028, with the number of aircraft grounded due to engine durability issues declining significantly. Airbus said engine deliveries are no longer a constraint for its 2026 outlook, is counting on Pratt & Whitney engine deliveries to support its planned production increases through 2027, and reaffirmed key rate targets including 70-75 A320neo-family aircraft per month by 2028.
- TXT: Flight testing of the clean-sheet Beechcraft Denali turboprop is expected to be completed in October, positioning the aircraft for FAA certification paperwork ahead of planned entry into service in 2027. The three-aircraft test program has accumulated more than 4,100 flight hours across roughly 1,650 flights, while the aircraft will be powered by GE's Catalyst engine and is expected to include Garmin Emergency Autoland as a standard feature.
- TXT: Cessna Citation CJ3 Gen3 completed its first flight, marking a key certification milestone and bringing all three next-generation Citation light jets: the CJ4 Gen3, CJ3 Gen3 and M2 Gen3, into flight testing. The CJ3 Gen3 incorporates Garmin Emergency Autoland and customer-driven cabin and avionics upgrades, with Textron now advancing the aircraft through its certification program.
- ULCC: Frontier said its fleet rightsizing efforts are largely complete as it targets a stable fleet of roughly 170 aircraft over the next two years and focuses on restoring sustained profitability. The carrier completed the early return of 24 leased A320neos during Q2, is in discussions to replace 13 additional A320neo leases with up to 10 A321neos, and expects more than 20% RASM growth in Q3 amid favorable industry capacity dynamics, while continuing premium product investments including first-class seating and Starlink Wi-Fi.
- The FAA finalized its radio altimeter upgrade mandate, requiring Part 121 and certain Part 129 operators to equip interference-tolerant systems by Dec. 30, 2030, affecting an estimated 27,200 radio altimeters on 12,500 aircraft initially and 58,500 units on 40,700 civil aircraft overall. The agency estimates upgrade costs of $80,000-$120,000 per unit, or $4.8BB-$7.2BB across the civil fleet, as it prepares for expanded wireless spectrum deployment in major U.S. markets beginning in 2030.

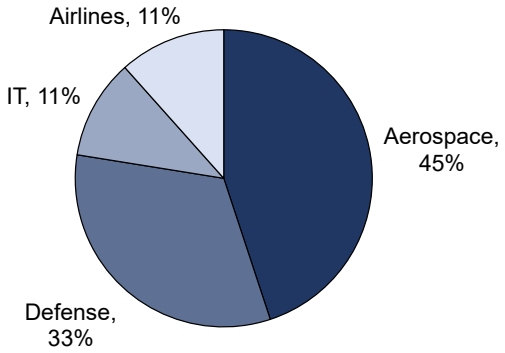

Airlines

- Air China: Air China will launch its first service to Iceland on Oct. 26, introducing 3x-weekly flights between Beijing and Reykjavik via Copenhagen using Airbus A330-300 aircraft. The route will make Air China the only Chinese carrier serving Iceland and forms part of a broader European expansion that has increased the airline's China-Europe seat capacity by about 22.6% year over year in summer 2026.
- Air India: Tata Group reported that Air India and Air India Express generated a net loss of more than INR220BB ($2.3BB) in the fiscal year ended March 31, 2026, as geopolitical airspace closures, elevated fuel costs, foreign-exchange pressures and the aftermath of the AI171 crash weighed on results.
- COMAC: COMAC completed the maiden flight of the high-altitude C919-600 variant, a version of the C919 designed for operations at airports on the Tibetan Plateau and other high-elevation regions. The nearly two-hour flight met all planned test objectives, and the program is being developed with Tibet Airlines, which has committed to 40 aircraft and is providing operational expertise for high-altitude operations.
- China Southern: China Southern plans to launch twice-weekly Boeing 787-9 service between Guangzhou and Addis Ababa via Changsha beginning Oct. 12, marking its entry into the Ethiopian market and further expanding its African network. The airline has increased China-Africa capacity by 51.5% year over year in summer 2026 and will compete with Ethiopian Airlines on the Guangzhou-Addis Ababa route.
- Emirates: Emirates said it plans to operate 92% of its pre-Iran war schedule from Aug. 1 despite renewed regional conflict, with load factors reaching 82% in the week of July 13 and yields remaining stable. Separately, the airline completed cabin retrofits on its 100th widebody aircraft and plans to upgrade another 120 aircraft as it extends use of Boeing 777-300ERs due to delayed 777X deliveries.
- JBLU: JetBlue announced a new fare shopping structure that will organize bookings around four onboard experiences: Main, EvenMore, BlueFirst and Mint. Customers then select from up to three fare options within each experience. The changes are designed to simplify flight shopping and support the rollout of BlueFirst, JetBlue's new domestic first-class product, which is scheduled to begin entering service later this year.
- JBLU: JetBlue secured Pratt & Whitney credits toward future goods and services related to GTF settlements through the end of 2025, providing additional compensation tied to ongoing geared turbofan issues.

- LUV: Southwest Airlines said it is continuing work on a planned airport lounge strategy, as part of efforts to expand its co-branded credit card offering and premium travel products. CEO Bob Jordan said lounge development is underway but not yet ready for formal announcement, while reports indicate the carrier has secured lounge space at airports including Austin, Dallas Love Field, Nashville, Denver and Honolulu as it seeks to enhance benefits for higher-value customers.
- SKYW: SkyWest said it will add 11 Embraer E175s under a new agreement with American Airlines, with deliveries beginning in late 2026 and continuing through 2027, while continuing CRJ fleet conversions that support its goal of operating an all dual-class fleet. The carrier expects to have 300 E175s in service by the end of 2027, is converting 4-6 CRJ200s per month into CRJ450s for United Airlines, and sees continued growth from strong demand across both contracted and prorate operations.
- UAL: The Trump administration unveiled a $22.5BB modernization plan for Washington Dulles International Airport, with construction targeted to begin in spring 2027 and funding expected to come from airport-generated revenues, municipal bonds and airline contributions, including United Airlines. As Dulles' dominant carrier with a 68.5% passenger market share, United is expected to play a significant role in the project, which includes expanded terminals, new concourses, additional gates and an airport-wide train system replacing the airport's mobile lounges.
- The U.S. government is targeting $2.2BB in rebates for airlines retrofitting aircraft over wireless interference, only U.S. operators will be eligible for reimbursement.

The price targets are based on several methodologies, which may include, but are not restricted to, analyses of market risk, growth rate, revenue stream, discounted cash flow (DCF), EBITDA, EPS, cash flow (CF), free cash flow (FCF), EV/EBITDA, P/E, PE/growth, P/CF, P/FCF, premium (discount)/average group EV/EBITDA, premium (discount)/average group P/E, sum of the parts, net asset value, dividend returns, and return on equity (ROE) over the next 12 months.

Jefferies Franchise Picks

Jefferies Franchise Picks include stock selections from among the best stock ideas from our equity analysts over a 12 month period. Stock selection is based on fundamental analysis and may take into account other factors such as analyst conviction, differentiated analysis, a favorable risk/reward ratio and investment themes that Jefferies analysts are recommending. Jefferies Franchise Picks will include only Buy rated stocks and the number can vary depending on analyst recommendations for inclusion. Stocks will be added as new opportunities arise and removed when the reason for inclusion changes, the stock has met its desired return, if it is no longer rated Buy and/or if it triggers a stop loss. Stocks having 120 day volatility in the bottom quartile of S&P stocks will continue to have a 15% stop loss, and the remainder will have a 20% stop. Franchise Picks are not intended to represent a recommended portfolio of stocks and is not sector based, but we may note where we believe a Pick falls within an investment style such as growth or value.
